

Nuance Named One of “Canada’s Top Employers for Young People” and One of “Montreal’s Top Employers”

BURLINGTON, Mass., January 31, 2019 – Nuance Communications, Inc. today announced that it has been named one of “Canada’s Top Employers for Young People” and one of “Montreal’s Top Employers” as part of Canada’s Top 100 Employers project, a competition conducted in partnership with The Globe and Mail.

“Our people are what set us apart and they are a key reason that Nuance is such a great place to work,” said Beth Conway, Executive Vice President and Chief Human Resources Officer. “It’s their passion, curiosity, and relentless pursuit of creating exceptional experiences for our customers that keeps our company on the cutting edge of conversational AI and ambient intelligence solutions. We are fiercely committed to cultivating a culture where our employees can thrive, and providing benefits that empower, inspire, and support their varying needs.”

The “Canada’s Top Employers for Young People” award is given to companies that offer the best environments for young people who are starting their professional careers. Each employer is evaluated on the benefits and programs they have to attract and retain younger workers, such as tuition assistance, co-ops and work study, mentorship and training programs, and career management programs.

Similarly, the “Montreal’s Top Employers” award is given to organizations scoring high across eight different employment categories, including: physical workplace; work atmosphere and social; health, financial, and family benefits; vacation and time off; employee communications; performance management; training and skills development; and community involvement.

This marks the sixth consecutive year the company has been recognized as a top Employer for Young People in Canada, and the ninth consecutive year it has been named a Top Employer in Montreal.

With a deep commitment to supporting its global employees, Nuance offers competitive benefits that range from professional development and continuing education opportunities to flexible work schedules, and on-site health and wellness programs. Additionally, Nuance maintains strong relationships with many universities worldwide, and the company’s Montreal office offers a robust internship program for students and young professionals, hosting more than 150 interns over the last 18 months.
